

Students are taken to field studies at least once a year starting from Class 1. In field studies, students are given practical trainings on Biodiversity, Botany, Zoology and other subjects. In addition, students identify the living organisms by collecting plants, fungi and vertebrate-invertebrates from nature. In this way, they increase their experience and skills.